QUESTION 4 – Case Study

Answer the following questions keeping the case study (below) in mind:

Susan has been causing a lot of trouble at her job recently. She has regularly been arriving late to work and not attending meetings. She makes long personal phone calls using the work phone and has been asking her colleagues to cover for her when she takes extended lunch breaks. She's also been stealing office supplies. Susan's colleagues are tired of covering for her. However, Susan's boss is friends with Susan's mother. No one else knows this. This is why he hired Susan in the first place and is why he has yet to discipline Susan for her poor behaviour.

- 4.1 Identify two examples of unethical behaviour in the above scenario. (2)
- 4.2 In what way is there a lack of accountability at the company where Susan works? (2)
- 4.3 In what way is there a lack of transparency at the company where Susan works? (2)

4.4 Analyse in what ways Susan's poor work ethics may negatively affect the following:

4.4.1 her colleagues

4.4.2 the company

4.4.3 herself going into the future

QUESTION 5 - Application Questions

Read the following extract and answer the questions that follow:

Interview Grooming and Presentation.

Although basic hygiene is not something anyone should have to justify, when preparing for a job interview it's worth paying attention to. Make sure your nails are trimmed and neatly manicured. Men should pay attention to this just as much as ladies. While your nails should be clean and short, your hands should also be washed and unmarked. Hair should be pulled back neatly and preferably off your face. If your hair is cut in a short style, make sure you don't need a trim before going to your job interview. Naturally, the way you smell is also significantly important when 'dressing for success' in a job interview. Don't make the common mistake of over-using cologne or perfume. Smelling nice is one thing, but causing acute asphyxiation of your interviewer is not going to secure you a call back.

There is a little piece of wisdom that you should always apply when getting dressed for a job interview.

Take a good look in the mirror and ask yourself; 'Would I hire me?' Pay close attention to each detail that encompasses your job interview outfit. If you can wear it out clubbing, don't wear it to your job interview.

Adapted from an article on www.jobs.co.za

5.1 Validate the reason for the writer of the article saying "Pay close attention to each detail that encompasses your job interview outfit".

- 5.2 Defend why it would be beneficial for applicants to ask themselves if they would hire themselves. (2)
- 5.3 Interpret what is meant by the “political transition”, which occurred in South Africa from the 1990s. (2)
- 5.4 Outline advice you would give to a friend who is going for his first interview and is very stressed. (2)

QUESTION 6 – Case Study

Answer the following questions keeping the case study (below) in mind:

Tembikata is a small rural village on the outskirts of KwaZulu Natal, with only 100 inhabitants and a couple of houses. Their dwellings are primitive, and they live off the land, looking after their cattle and growing their own fruit and vegetables.

The community leader approached the local municipality nearby and discussed the issue the community is facing due to the lack of running water. The people of Tembikata have been promised that they will receive running water by the end of 2012.

It is now nearly the end of 2015, and no water system has been put in place. The locals and the leader of the community are becoming fed up. They say it is within their rights to receive fresh drinking water. Because of the lack of infrastructure, many people are becoming seriously ill.

- 6.1 Identify the type of problem the people of Tembikata are faced with? (1)
- 6.2 What right is being violated according to our constitution? (1)
- 6.3 The local municipality of Tembikata has certain responsibilities towards the locals. Determine their responsibility. (1)

- 6.4 Name one other source that the residents of the community could approach to assist them? (1)
- 6.5 Propose TWO (2) other ways in which they could ensure they receive the services they need. (2)
- 6.6 Explain the concept of public participation to the residents. (2)
- 6.7 Provide a brief outline of the petition process. (2)
- 6.8 The local government is responsible in this case; name the TWO (2) other levels of government. (2)
